Hi Kelly and Lauren,

Let me know if the email below displays for you. I've never done HTML emails before so I have no idea if this will work!

Best,
Daniel

CAGS WASHINGTON WEEKLY NEWSLETTER

Representative Zoe Lofgren (D-CA) introduced H. R. 3035: Surveillance Order Reporting Act of 2013 on August 2, 2013. If passed, H. R. 3035 would allow electronic service providers to inform the public of inquiries and demands for information made by any government entity without being held "liable with respect to that report." The bill was assigned to the House Financial Services, House Judiciary, and House Intelligence (Permanent Select) committees and awaits consideration.

Representative James “Jim” Langevin (D-RI) introduced H. R. 3032: The Executive Cyberspace Coordination Act of 2013 on August 2, 2013. The bill aims to bolster national defense against cyber threats by expanding the abilities of the federal government to respond to challenges in cyberspace. A major provision of the bill is the establishment of the National Office for Cyberspace, which would serve as the "principle office of coordinating issues related to cyberspace." The National Office for Cyberspace would also: (1) oversee information security policies and practices; (2) create and manage a national educational program focusing on cybersecurity and computer literacy; (3) review aspects of federal agency budgets relating to the protection of information infrastructures; and (4) “maintain a central federal security incident center.” H. R. 3032 was assigned to the House Homeland Security and House Oversight and Government Reform committees and awaits consideration.
